PACKING CHECKLIST FOR

Autumn in New England

A Wardrobe Plan for Unpredictable Fall Weather

Welcome, Fall!

Fall is a season that sneaks up on you in New England. One minute, you're frolicking in beach waves along the coastline; the next, you're wrapping a fleece blanket to your nose.

With the cooler temperatures also comes a crescendo of color, from bright yellows and warm oranges to brilliant reds. You'll find apple picking and fall fairs, cider donuts and pumpkins almost everywhere you look.

Fall is also a great time of year for taking walks or hiking in the crisp fresh air. On mountain summits, you'll discover the vibrant tapestry created by autumn foliage that cloaks quaint New England villages below.

New England weather is notorious for being unpredictable. It can range from dry daytime temps in the low 70's to cool damp evenings below 50 degrees F. You may luck out with a short "Indian Summer," where temps briefly soar into the 80's for a last warm "hoorah," or encounter a damp raw rainy day that makes your bones ache.

So, you'll want to be prepared for the weather. The key to it is:

- Dress in layers, and
- Pack a variety of outerwear

I've prepared this packing list to make it easier for you to plan your fall trip to New England.

Hi! I'm Jackie Gately from Enjoy Travel Life.

I'm a seasoned traveler writer and empty-nester embarking on new adventures. I love photography, travel blogging, and designing creative travel products over at Enjoy Travel Life.

Some of my favorite things include

- Going off the beaten path
- Floating peacefully in crystal clear water
- Enjoying local, wholesome flavors and regional drinks
- Chasing the sunset with my camera.

It's experiential learning at it's best, and I thrive on it.

I welcome you to follow my travels at enjoytravellife.com as well as on social media.

Feel free to email me with your feedback or travel questions at: jackiegately@enjoytravellife.com.

I'd love to hear from you!

Warmly,
